"The fastest rising star on the Washington horizon" he was called on a national network TV program in December. His name is Sam Nunn and he is the Junior Senator from Georgia.

Young Sam's ability and expertise were recognized immediately upon his election in 1974, when he was 35 years old. Immediately he was placed on important committees, stepping into the big shoes of Sen. Dick Russell. Most recently he has been appointed to serve on the new Senate Budget Committee, and co-sponsored, with Sen. Herman Talmadge, a Constitutional Amendment to require a balanced federal budget except in times of national emergency.

A native of Perry, Ga., Sam was educated at Georgia Tech and Emory Law School. He practiced law in Perry, with his father, Sam, was State Representative from Houston County, 1968-72. Earlier, while working in government in Washington he met and married a fellow worker, Colleen O'Brien, of Olympia, Wash. They have two children, Mary Michelle, 9, and Samuel Brian, 6. The picture of the family shown here, with their dog, Charlie, is one of the senator's favorites, repeated here with country road in background.

He will be our speaker on Alumnae Day, April 24, his mother's Golden Anniversary reunion.

1976 ALUMNAE WEEKEND

April 23 and 24

SPEAKER: SENATOR SAM NUNN

Wesleyan's Bicentennial Alumnae Weekend, April 23-24, will honor three Sams — Uncle Sam, whose 200th birthday it is, Dr. Sam Akers, whose history of Wesleyan's first hundred years is in publication, and Sam Nunn, US senator who is helping to make the history of his country. The latter will be the speaker at the annual Alumnae Day, Saturday.

Nostalgia will flavor the fashion show to be presented Friday evening in the Oval Hall of Candler Alumnae Center, following dinner in the Anderson Dining Room. Various reunion classes will model dresses of their eras. The Golden Girls promise a wedding gown, a short beaded Clara Bow shift, and even the remembrance of a May Queen, when Elizabeth Cannon Nunn, mother of the speaker, will don regal robes. There will be Spanish shawls, mini-skirts, perhaps even bloomers and middy blouses.

Quilts and needlework will be exhibited, brought in by alumnae, with Emily Brown Rumble in charge. Tables will be set up for ordering the Akers book, whose publication is promised for the fall, in time for Christmas giving (See Coupon on p. 4).

Reservations are coming in briskly for the weekend. Some alumnae are bringing their husbands, with golf and tennis promised as added entertainment for the men; some will have children and grandchildren, for whom baby sitters will be provided. (See coupons on p. 6).

"Everyone is invited," says Jackie Davis Richardson, alumnae president, "whether a reunioner or not. It should be a gala celebration, one that we'll long remember."

Reunion classes are: Golden — 1926, Silver — 1951, Jade (35th) — 1941, '01, '06, '11 (65th), '12, '13, '16, '31, '32, '33, '34, '56, '57, '71, '72, '73, '75.

On Saturday's agenda is the election of officers for the next three years. The slate for 1976 - 1979 follows:

President, Sandi Bell Shipp, '66; 1st Vice President, Susan Woodward Walker, '70; 2nd Vice President, Laura Sullivan Barkley, '68; 3rd Vice President, Edwina Hall Beall, '53; 4th Vice President, Debra Stockton, '74; Secretary, Florabelle Bloodworth Mellard, '61; Treasurer, Rosalind Allison Burns, '47; Member-at-large, Joy Coody Moon, '64; Alumnae Trustee, Bettijo Hogan Cook, '48.

Alumnae award recipients will be: For Distinguished Service to Wesleyan — Betty Jo Hammock Boyes, AB '48, Atlanta, Ga., and Arline Atkins Finch, AB '56, Atlantis, Fla.; For Distinguished Achievement — Mary Lewis, AB '51, Alexandria, Va.; Verna French Shaffer, BM '16, Cordele, Ga.; Rosalie Voight Johnson, AB '56, Atlanta; and an alumnus, Leon F. Moburg, BFA '51, Mentone City, Calif.

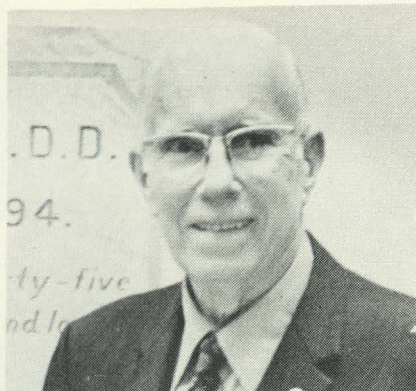

DR. AKERS' BOOK GOES TO PRESS

Sample opening pages have arrived on campus of Dr. Samuel L. Akers' history of Wesleyan's first hundred years. The book, under the imprint of the Beehive Press, of Savannah, will be beautifully designed and filled with pictures.

"The story (of Wesleyan) is one of thrilling adventure," writes Dr. Akers on page 1, "which we of the 1970's can contemplate with a perspective denied to George Foster Pierce, first President of the College, when he wrote in February, 1840, 'Whatever may be the ultimate fate of the enterprise — the design is good, the progress promising, and the prospect . . . is gilded with the light of hope.' To us time has bequeathed the privilege of scanning the years to observe the building of a monument."

"This story," says President W. Earl Strickland, "has been written by one who has known Wesleyan intimately and loved it for many years. He has done a great deal of research. Mills B. Lane, IV, thinks it will be a beautiful, useful book. He said he is pleased to work with it and to publish it for Wesleyan."

The book is scheduled to appear in the fall, in time for Christmas giving. The price will then be $15.00; prepublication price is $10.00 a copy, and orders are to be sent to the President's office. (See Coupon below). A number of people have already mailed in their checks. First to do so was Sue Tanner McKenzie, '17, of Atlanta, who has ordered two copies.

On Alumnae Weekend a committee helping to sponsor the book will be on hand to take orders. You may place your order with Malene Lee Morgan, Mary Lane Cheek, Joyce Reddick Schafer, Tena Roberts, Betty Davenport Plant, or Freda Kaplan Nadler, chairman.

Today's students have expressed interest in the girls of an earlier era who were awakened by a bell at sunrise, rose for family prayer led by President Pierce, who were graduated in plain white dresses made by their mothers, of not more than eight yards of cotton material.

This is their story, and the recounting, too, of crucial days before and after the Civil War, of financial panics, of the struggle for survival of this first college created to give females an education comparable to the best available for males of that day.

Trips

Reservations are already coming in for the alumnae-sponsored Bicentennial Tour to Boston and New England, scheduled for ten days beginning Sept. 15 and timed for colorful fall foliage. The group will visit Boston for three nights, see Newport with the Vanderbilt mansion, Sturbridge Village, Berkshire Hills, the Green Mountains, the Lake Region of New Hampshire, the White Mountains and Maine.

A morning flight on Delta from Atlanta or Macon to Boston launches the Bicentennial itinerary — Cambridge, Lexington and Concord, Plymouth, and the rest, on to the Longfellow Mountains, and a ride on a lobster boat in Perkins Cove, Vt.

The price from Atlanta and return is $675, with first class hotels and inns all the way, and most meals, including a clam bake. A deposit of $100 holds reservations, which are limited to the first who reach the Alumnae Office. Fill in coupon below, or call Alumnae Office, 477-1110.

This alumnae tour is being arranged by Trandhardt Travel Service, who also invite alumnae and friends to join a two-weeks' North Cape cruise July 13-30 on the Royal Viking Sky. For details write Mrs. Pat Fuller, P. O. Box 4837, Athens, Ga. 30604.

HAWAII, ANYONE?

A trip to Hawaii is being sponsored by the alumnae association July 22-30, to include 4 nights in Honolulu and 3 nights on the island of Maui. Breakfast and dinner are included, also sightseeing and a cocktail party. Price is $629.00 per person, on share twin-bedded room basis. The flight leaves from Atlanta and returns there. Still time for reservations!

When Wesleyan College was founded as Georgia Female College, chartered in 1836 to grant degrees to women, Thomas Bogue Slade was invited to become a member of its first faculty as Professor of Natural Sciences. From his Clinton Female Seminary about a dozen miles from Macon, he brought with him thirty of his pupils; they entered on the junior class level and were graduated a year later. The Old Clinton area, including the site of the seminary, has been declared a Historic District by the National Register of Historic Places; it is being preserved and restored. At the Homecoming services for the Clinton Community, held June 29 at the Clinton United Methodist Church, Dr. W. Earl Strickland, president of Wesleyan, spoke on the relationship of Clinton Female Seminary and the College. Your Editor has asked Tena Roberts, Wesleyan librarian, whose family hails from Clinton, to write on this subject. A case of Professor Slade's scientific instruments is on display in the Museum Room of Candler Alumnae Center.

By Tena Roberts

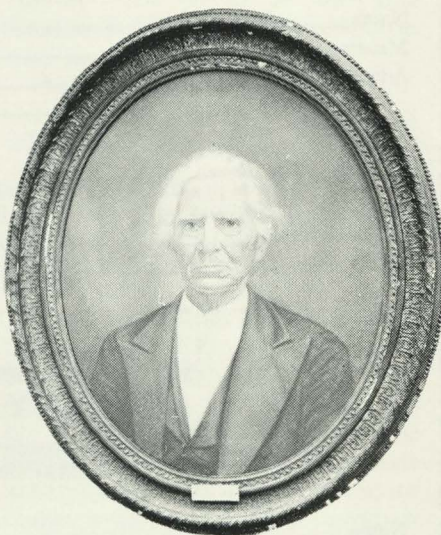

In early 1808 the village of Clinton was settled on the edge of the Indian Frontier in Georgia. The town, marked as the seat of newly created Jones County, grew and prospered from the beginning. Doctors, lawyers, business men, Indian traders and many others came bringing their families, their worldly possessions, and their energy and knowledge to build the town into the 13th largest city in the state by 1820.

To Clinton in 1824 came a young man whose philosophy and vision was to affect profoundly the early history of Wesleyan College. Thomas Bogue Slade, according to historian Lucian Lamar Knight, was "a far sighted scholar who, with the ken of a prophet, could read the signs of the future ... opened an academy in the year 1828 and started a movement for woman's intellectual emancipation."

Professor Slade had been born in North Carolina in 1800. For a time he had practiced law with his father; however, he soon tired of the legal profession and moved to Georgia to become a teacher and preacher.

He purchased some five acres of land in Clinton in 1828 and built the Clinton Female Seminary. According to a letter to the editor of the Jones County News written many years later, the school was described as "... a boarding school, a large two story frame building ... it faced toward the court house square and its front yard was nicely terraced and planted with beautiful flowers ... The school room was on the ground floor and the sleeping rooms were on the upper floor ... The back yard and grounds were planted in fruit trees and were well kept."

Clinton — Wesleyan

Thomas Bogue Slade

The curriculum of this academy included the usual literature, composition, language, music, drawing, and painting. However, Professor Slade was determined to give his students much more. He included the sciences, and "chemical lectures" in the listing of required courses. This was unusual for many academies of that time and almost unheard of in those whose student bodies were made up entirely of women.

The reputation of Slade and his school was such that it was a well known fact that he never sought pupils, they came to him. He also was known never to turn away a girl because she could not pay her tuition. Bond issues were voted by the community and fairs and bazaars were held to raise money for the additional support needed by the scholars.

A hand bill of the Seminary printed in May 1836 now in possession of Wesleyan's Willet Library gives a good indication of the curriculum and the terms of the school year.

CLINTON FEMALE SEMINARY

Rates

Board, except candles and washing, scholastic year — $100.00; Tuition, including Languages and Sciences — 32.00; Chemical lectures — 10.00; Music — 50.00; Drawing and painting — 20.00; Use of Piano — 6.00; Wood and servant hire in school room — 4.00; Total — $222.00.

Such was Professor Slade's prestige as an educator that when Wesleyan College was founded as the Georgia Female College, chartered to grant degrees to women, he was invited to become a member of the school's first faculty as Professor of Natural Sciences.

In order to prepare for his new position and to insure that the new college for women could offer the best instruction possible, Slade made a trip north to visit prestigious academies and colleges and to purchase scientific equipment. He kept a diary during this trip, a copy of which can be found in the Wesleyan library. Excerpts from his journal reveal not only Slade the teacher but Slade the minister as well.

"Stayed five days in Boston ... I must record the kindness and polite attention which I received from Mr. Wrightman of the firm of Claxton & Wrightman, makers of Philosophical Apparatus ... His rooms containing apparatus of various kinds is the greatest curiosity I have met with in my travels, yet but few know anything of it."

"Sabbath at ten o'clock I preached at a Baptist Church of which Baron Stow is pastor. The congregation was strange, the house large and splendidly fitted up with an organ, velvet cushions, sofas, etc. were all new to me and little like to the simple unadorned sanctuary where I delighted to worship. In the fear of God I tried to forget these things and think only of the immortal souls I had to address."

"Thursday afternoon arrived at New Haven. Called on my old friend and faithful teacher, Professor Olmsted. He politely showed me his lecture room and other things worthy of notice at Yale College. From here I learned something of the character of the female schools at New Haven. The course of studies is much like to college, and they have long settled the point that females should be equal participants in the advantages of a thorough education. This has long been my opinion and for the accomplishment of which I have devoted much time, labor and expense. Classical studies and mathematical science are resorted to as the best method of training the mind."

Upon his return to Georgia, Professor Slade assumed his duties at the Georgia Female College. Not only was he professor of natural sciences but he was named general overseer of the affairs of the college and arranged the first curriculum.

He brought with him to Macon thirty of his pupils to form the nucleus of the first student body, and two music teachers as well. Such was the training and educational accomplishment of the students that these girls could enter on the level of the Junior Class of any college then in existence. Thus the college graduated its first class one year later. The diploma received by these graduates was designed and written by Thomas Slade.

Thomas Slade was far ahead of his time not only in advocating education for women but in the methods he used as well. Even in the best colleges for men, all scientific experiments and laboratory work was done by the professor, with students in the role of observers. Not so in Slade's classroom. The girls worked in the laboratory conducting experiments, each depending on her knowledge and training for success. Legend has it that the janitor who assisted Mr. Slade in preparing the laboratory would hide outside the window and whisper the correct answers to the girls when they failed to arrive at the desired results themselves.

In 1842 Slade left the college to move to Columbus, Ga., where he served as principal and proprietor of an outstanding female institute. Thomas Bogue Slade, lawyer, minister, scientist, educator, died in 1882, leaving an indelible mark not only on the education of the women of the mid-19th century but on the education of the future generations of women who would call Wesleyan Alma Mater.

A print of Old Wesleyan's towers was used by the Macon Museum of Arts and Sciences as a reward to the first 150 people who sent a contribution of $35.00 to their No Ball-Ball fund. The full-sized colored lithograph is a reproduction of a water color done by Emil Holzhauser when he was chairman of the art department at Wesleyan. Each is numbered and signed by the artist. The No Ball project, just closing, replaces for the second year the Bryde's Cup Ball the Museum has sponsored, based on Harry Stillwell Edwards' famous story of "Eneus Africanus." The original Holzhauser painting was presented to the museum by SOS sorority members and alumnae of Wesleyan.

The museum is sponsoring its other major fund raising project, Georgia Jubilee, a Turn of the Century Festival of arts, crafts, music and special events, May 1-2 at Central City Park. The Museum Guild, of which Katherine Kennedy Walden, '68, is president, is assisting with both projects. Doug Noble, museum director, invites support. Proceeds go to the museum, the Macon Arts Council, and Middle Georgia Council on Drugs.

PUCCINI OPERA

A TRIUMPH!

Puccini's one-act opera, "Suor Angelica", written for an all female cast, closed the January term with a thrilling performance on the night of the 28th. The audience packing Porter Auditorium rose to its feet in a standing ovation.

Soprano Carol ("Casey") Thurman, '65 assistant professor of voice at the College, according to next day's newspaper, "turned it into a personal triumph, singing the murderously demanding title role of Sister Angelica." Contralto Susan Word, '75, now a graduate student at Florida State, with her "formidable voice", portrayed the austere Princess, the unforgiving aunt of the tormented Sister Angelica. Both artists are former students of Prof. Norman McLean. Patti Eakes, '76, second soprano lead, currently studies with him. Other students formed the community of singing nuns.

Mary Pate Hatfield, '48, '50, speech professor, directed with great skill. The handsome setting of the convent courtyard and the program were designed by her husband, Russell Hatfield.

John O'Steen achieved the orchestral reduction for piano and organ and also played the piano accompaniment, with Angela Fetzter, '75, at the organ.

Vocal coaches for the beautifully blended cloister music were Dr.

Sylvia Ross, Miss Thurman, and Mr. McLean.

Assisting the Department of Music in the production were Herbert Herrington, Edward Eikner, Tom Prochaska, Joel Plum, and George McKinney.

More Music

February brought three more important musical events to campus. On Sunday afternoon, the 8th, Edward Eikner, of the music faculty, presented a preview of the piano program scheduled for his New York City debut later in the month; on the 12th and 13th former Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano conducted a music workshop for students; and on the night of the 17th Robert McDuffie gave a violin recital sponsored by Wesleyan and the Macon Federated Music Club.

Eikner, "tall, Texan, and talented," received Van Cliburn and Fulbright grants, has performed in Europe and the USA, in recital and as soloist with symphonies. His New York debut was in Alice Tully Hall, Lincoln Center, Feb. 23. This spring he will make recordings for educational radio and will be featured in the Palm Springs, Calif. music festival.

McDuffie is the recent winner of the Young Artists Competition for high school students. He is a student in the Pre-College Division of the Julliard School, is concert master of the school's Pre-College Orchestra, also of the Young Artists Symphony of Long Island, N.Y. Son of an alumna, Susan Thigpen McDuffie, '53, Bobby has won recognition and honors since he began his study of the violin at the age of 6.

On March 15 Jennifer Brown, cellist, and Edward Eikner will be presented by Wesleyan and the Morning Music Club of Macon.

March will also bring Vincent Corrigan, harpsichordist, on the 8th, in the Oval Hall of the Candler Alumnae Center. He will conduct a workshop in March, as will Marvin Blickenstaff, pianist.

Wesleyan Glee Club

The Wesleyan Glee Club goes on tour in March. Evening Concerts will be given March 25 at First United Methodist Church, Waycross, Ga.; March 26 at First United Methodist Church, Perry, Fla.; March 28 at Ortega United Methodist Church, Jacksonville, Fla.; March 29 at First United Methodist Church, Brunswick, Ga.; March 30 at Trenholm Rd. United Methodist Church, Columbia, S.C.; and March 31 at Eastlan Baptist Church, Greenville, S.C.

Gift of Music

Daisy Frances Smith, Blairsville, Ga., via the Rev. Don Crews, sent the College two boxes of music, music books and magazines, all listed, which had come to her from the aunt who had adopted her. She enclosed a check for $250 to assist in preserving it. The music has been placed in the Willet Library as part of our research materials. She wrote President Strickland that her aunt was "a Wesleyan graduate of 1877 who for many years used her music to benefit individuals, her church, and her community — FANNIE HURT WRIGHT (Mrs. Charles Whiteford Smith). Her father and my grandfather, Patrick Arminius Wright (1829-1879) was for some years a trustee of Wesleyan. He spent his life in the ministry of the Methodist Church."

Sympathy to Mme. Chiang

Resolutions of sympathy were forwarded by Wesleyan's Trustees and Alumnae Board of Managers to Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek on the death of her husband last summer. Messages of condolence were also sent by Wesleyan's president, alumnae director, editor of NOW, and others, to all of whom she replied with personal letters on black-banded stationery. Frances Van Horn was asked to "thank each and every one of my friends"; to Freda K. Nadler she described the funeral cortege, viewed by two million people, and sent affection and regards to Dr. and Mrs. Fred Manget. She wrote that she finds Wesleyan publications "of great interest", and hoped to include a visit to the College, should she be in the States again.

As Mayling Soong, Mme. Chiang spent half a dozen girlhood years studying on the campus of Old Wesleyan while her sisters, who later became Mme. Sun Yat Sen and Mme. H. H. Kung, were working on their degrees.

Honor Mrs. Leach

A Resolution of Appreciation of Anne Winship Bates Leach, Honorary Alumna, '72, was adopted by the Board of the Wesleyan Alumnae Assn. on June 11, 1975.

WHEREAS, Anne Winship Bates Leach, Honorary Alumna of Palm Beach, Florida, has endeared herself to all connected with Wesleyan College because of her gentle, sensitive nature, her warm heart and her love of beauty, and WHEREAS, she has helped the College in a variety of ways through a number of years, contributing to campus beautification, and other needs, including an elevator for our Candler Alumnae Center, and

WHEREAS, she has expressed her affection and confidence in the scholastic standards of the Alma Mater of her distinguished aunt, the late Anne Bates Haden, by sending us as students a great granddaughter and two granddaughters, with another in prospect and

WHEREAS, she has further demonstrated her devotion to the historic first chartered college for women by undergirding it with a gift of two successive perpetual trusts of a million dollars each, THEREFORE, the Board of Managers of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association, in session this eleventh day of June, 1975, do take this means of expressing our love and admiration, along with our deep and eternal gratitude to this great lady and good friend, with the hope that she and her husband, Willaford Ransome Leach, and their family will be blessed for her magnificent generosity.

If you receive more than one copy of Wesleyan College NOW please give the extra to a friend. As alumna, parent, trustee, etc. you may be on duplicate lists. Because of Zip Code orders, it costs more to separate duplications than to mail them. We hope you understand.

THE ANNUAL FUND: AN INVESTMENT IN WESLEYAN

By Donald S. Stanton Vice-President for Development.

From time to time, persons have asked questions about Wesleyan's Annual Fund program. I am pleased for this opportunity to discuss here some of the questions which have been asked most frequently.

Question: What is the Annual Fund?

Answer: The Annual Fund is a significant opportunity for a person to invest in the daily life of Wesleyan. It is a basic source of support for the current operations of the College.

Q. What kinds of expenses are included in current operations?

A. Current operations involve all continuing expenses which occur each year. These include expenditures for financial aid and services for students, salaries, academic programs, alumnae services, library, and other ongoing expenses.

Q. Is the Annual Fund the only source of income for current operational expenses?

A. No, Wesleyan also receives operating income from other sources, such as endowment and student tuition and fees. The Annual Fund, however, provides a necessary part of this income. Almost all strong colleges have effective, continuing Annual Fund programs. Funds from other sources simply are not enough to meet the very high costs of providing education of good quality.

Q. How does the Annual Fund relate to the Alumnae Loyalty Fund?

A. The Alumnae Loyalty Fund is a vital part of the Annual Fund. The Annual Fund also includes gifts for current operations from trustees, parents, foundations, corporations, businesses, the church, faculty, staff, students, and other friends of the College.

Q. What should an alumna do to be sure that her gift to the Annual Fund is credited toward funds contributed by alumnae?

A. This is now done automatically. Any gift to the Annual Fund by an alumna is credited to the Alumnae Loyalty Fund which is part of the Annual Fund. This is true of gifts to the Annual Fund which alumnae mail to the President's Office or to the Development Office, as well as those sent directly to the Alumnae Office.

In some cases, alumnae are making contributions to the Annual Fund in response to personal visits in their homes. These gifts from alumnae also are credited to alumnae totals, even if the person calling in the home is not an alumna.

Q. How is the Annual Fund different from the Capital Gifts Campaign?

A. The Capital Gifts Campaign emphasized major capital needs, such as endowment and renovation of buildings. The Annual Fund is a source of operating funds.

The Capital Gifts Campaign officially concluded on May 8, 1975 although many persons will be completing payments on previous capital pledges over the next few years. The new emphasis on the Annual Fund began on July 1, 1975 and will be repeated on an annual basis.

The Capital Gifts Campaign involved pledges which extended over a period of years. A pledge to the Annual Fund is payable during the same fiscal year in which the pledge is made.

Q. When are payments and pledges for this year's Annual Fund due?

A. Gifts to the Annual Fund made any time during the current fiscal year will be counted in this year's records. This fiscal year ends on June 30, 1976.

Q. What is the anonymous challenge gift?

A. An anonymous alumna has offered to contribute $1,000 for each percentage point of increase over last year's giving by Wesleyan alumnae. This represents potentially a very significant gift, if a large number of alumnae contribute this year.

Q. What are the Annual Fund gift clubs?

A. These are honorary clubs, established to recognize those who make especially significant gifts to the Annual Fund during one fiscal year. The following are possibilities:

1. The 1836 Club — $100 to $499
2. The Achievement Club — $500 to $999
3. The Heritage Club — $1,000 or over

In addition to these larger gifts, Wesleyan needs smaller gifts from hundreds of persons, if the basic needs of the College are to be met.

Q. Why is Wesleyan's need for current operating funds so significant at this time?

A. Among the reasons for this are the following:

1. When colleges have a capital funds campaign, giving to current operations often decreases. This was true for Wesleyan, during the College's recent Capital Gifts Campaign.

2. Inflation has had a serious effect upon all colleges. Wesleyan is working hard to manage carefully and cut costs, but some costs inevitably increase in a dramatic way. The College, for example, must pay at least $15,000 more this year for electricity than in the previous year.

3. Private church-related colleges, such as Wesleyan, are especially dependent upon private sources of funds, because they do not receive the very large amounts of state and federal money which state colleges and universities receive. Private colleges require generous contributions from interested persons. The alternative would be a situation with no private colleges, so that higher education would be controlled entirely by the state. State colleges and universities have an important role in our nation. I believe strongly, however, that a college like Wesleyan makes a vital contribution to students and to society.

A gift to the Annual Fund is an investment in private, church-related higher education for women. It is an investment in Wesleyan College.

Telephone Campaign

A telephone campaign is planned for the Macon area March 15-16-17 at the Denmark branch of C&S Bank, Macon. Alumnae and Wesleyan students will assist with calling in the interest of Wesleyan's Annual Fund.

News Of Wesleyan

Dr. C. Hugh Holman, Kenan Professor of English at UNC, will present three lectures on "The Apologetic Bondage of History: The Southern Writer and the Past". Dates are April 7, 7:30 p.m.; April 8 at 11:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Highlight of the Sesquicentennial Celebration of Mulberry Methodist Church, Macon, will be a gala banquet at Wesleyan on March 20. Leo J. ("Jack") Huckabee, Wesleyan trustee, is chairman of the committee making plans. The College and Mulberry have long shared a special relationship. In the years of Old Wesleyan students, chaperoned by faculty, marched down the Hill every Sunday morning to attend services at this historic church.

A conference on Counseling Adult Women: a Learning Experience for Those who Guide Today's Women was held at Wesleyan with all-day sessions on Feb. 18 and 25. Dr. Judith Prince, director of counseling at the College, was one of eight experts on the conference faculty. The conference was sponsored by Wesleyan and the University of Georgia Center for Continuing Education, and was partially funded by a Title I Grant, Higher Education Act of 1965.

Alumnae who are teachers are invited to stop by the Wesleyan table at the GAE State Convention in Atlanta, March 25-26, to meet representatives of the College and to pick up the latest material about Wesleyan. The Georgia Assn. of Educators will meet in the South Hall of the Civic Center. Frances Bruce Van Horn, alumnae director, and others from campus will be there.

FEBRUARY, 1976

Era Fashion Show by Reunion classes on Alumnae Weekend will include dress of the '20's, admired by Malene Lee Morgan, '32, and Weize Ann Hayes Wright, '73.

Mrs. Earl Strickland, chairman of AAUW golden anniversary celebration, gives BD cake to Celeste Copeland Williams, '25.

Join the Club

Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Group 9 had a party for prospective students Jan. 15 at the home of Rufus and Jane Mulkey Green. Susan Woodward Walker, '70, first chairman of this young group, reported that around 50 prospective students and parents attended. Admissions Director Burton Fite and his assistant, Kay Turner, presented slides and explanations; the Washboard Band furnished entertainment. Refreshments were provided by '70-'75 alumnae.

This group also met in Sept. for a picnic in Chastain Park. Graduates from 1970 to the present who have moved to the Atlanta area and would like to be included in alumnae activities can contact

Ann Thornton Reynolds, '73, chairman of Group 9, at 529-6256 (office) or 355-6274 (home) says Susan.

Atlanta

A Purple Elephant Sale is to be sponsored by the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club on April 1 at St. James United Methodist Church, 4400 Peachtree-Dunwoody, NE, Atlanta. If you are wondering, "What is a purple elephant?" it is something especially nice that donors to the sale no longer need or use, according to Jane Mulkey Green, '42, '43, president of the Atlanta Club. "We'll be selling everything from A to Z that Thursday, open 9:30 a.m. to 7:00 p.m." Everyone is invited to come purchase a royal Purple Elephant. Betty Jo Boyes, '48, is chairman of this fund-raising project.

The Atlanta Club will hold its general meeting April 21 at the Atlanta Historical Society Center at 10:30 a.m. Dr. Paul Fuller, chairman of Wesleyan's history department, will be the speaker.

Macon

A Kitchen Karavan, popular fund-raising effort of the Macon Wesleyan Alumnae Club, is set for Thursday, April 1, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Six homes with historical significance, also the Sidney Lanier Cottage on High Street (baked goods will be on sale there), will be open. Tickets are $3.00, or $2.50 if check is received in the Alumnae Office by March 31. Reserved tickets may be picked up at the Lanier Cottage on April 1. Trudy Parker Sessions, '65, is president of the Macon Club. Mary Jo Fincher Plowden, '68, is chairman of the Kitchen Karavan.

Yoko (R.) Setsuko, Jannette, and Yumiko (Setsuko's sister-in-law)

In Far-off Japan

An Alumnae Club in Japan is in the offing, if plans of Setsuko Kato Taguchi, '71, of Kawasaki-city, and Yoko Kawarabayashi, '75, of Yokohama, materialize.

Setsuko wrote to President and Mrs. Strickland: "Yoko and I talked about having a meeting of Wesleyannes in Japan. According to the list she showed me, more than 10 girls seemed to go to Wesleyan by now. How wonderful it would be if we could meet together!"

On a two weeks' trip to Japan in 1971 the Stricklands had met Japanese alumnae in various cities, had enjoyed their homes and their families, especially Setsuko's grandmother in Kyoto, "72 and a dynamo." At that time President Strickland suggested the possibility of a club. Now Setsuko and Yoko are planning to follow through, armed with a list from the Alumnae Office.

Setsuko and her husband, Hiroshi, a former ski instructor, went on a ski trip early this year. They were accompanied by Yoko and Jannette Peronard, a Wesleyan student taking her junior year abroad at International Christian University (ICU). Yoko is also at ICU this year, working toward another degree.

"We talked in English and Japanese and at once became very good friends," wrote Setsuko. "Yoko brought photo albums and many color slides and a projector with her. I was so excited, looking . . . class buildings, infirmary, dorms, snack bar, lodge, golf course, lake with geese, stunts, May queen, soccer game, barbecue, Rats, ginkgo, magnolia, and more than these, dear teachers! Everything reminded me of my Wesleyan College. Yoko told

Jacksonville

The Jacksonville Wesleyan Alumnae Club had a luncheon on Sept. 10 honoring seven devoted alumnae who attended the College before 1920. Annette White King, '31, at whose home the party was held, wrote: "There were lots of toasts and reminiscences, such a happy time, with corsages (lavender and purple, of course) and gifts of Wesleyan notepaper for the honorees." These included Louise Cauthen Entenza, '03; Maie Dell Roberts Covington, '06; Hilda Blount Brantley and Naomi Diggs Smith, '18; Mattie Beulah McMath White, '19; Elizabeth Mount, '20. Sara Virginia McWilliams Gill, '18 could not be present.

Jacksonville held a prospective students party Jan. 27, with Joyce Reddick Schafer, dean of student affairs, representing the College.

Helen Neal Baer, new president of the Columbus (Ga.) alumnae club, reports that her group is setting up a party for prospective students in March. The Newnan alumnae, with the help of Jan Bull Simpson, '70, Alumnae Link, are also making similar plans.

Sarasota

A Coffee was held for alumnae of the Sarasota, Fla., area at the home of Merle Dorman Sauve, '40, on Saturday, November 22. The group plans to meet again and hopes that an Alumnae Club can be organized in this area.

me how she enjoyed her life at Wesleyan . . ."

"With the Spirit of Wesleyan so bright we hope to hear more from these alumnae in far-off Japan," said Alumnae Director Frances Van Horn.

Class Notes

CORRA WESTON WILCOX, Sewanee, Tenn., wrote, "Wish I could have sent more," with her contribution. According to SUSAN LEONARD, '09, alumnae of 65 years and older are really responding to the loyalty Fund.

PEARLE COLEMAN SLOAN, Columbia, S.C., "I am now 93 years of age and unable to send you any prospective students, but I can send a small check."

'06

Next Reunion in '76

LAURA SMITH FOSTER, a charter member of the Adelphean Society at Wesleyan, is at Living Center, Apple Airport, Griffin, Ga., and loves to hear news of Wesleyan, according to her daughter Laura Chapin, who met your Editor while the latter was lunching recently with ANNE WINSHIP BATES LEACH in Palm Beach.

Next Reunion in '77

RUTH PINKSTON NORMAN, Greenville, Ga., wrote in July: "I read in last NOW magazine that it costs $5.00 per subscription, so I can at least send check for my subscription. I do enjoy it very much, and even if I am 83 years old, I can still love Wesleyan and all that concerns it."

Next Reunion in '76

CHRISTINE BRYAN SCARBOROUGH, Tallahassee, Fla., wrote to FRANCES GODFREY CANDLER, Madison, Ga., in Oct. that she was leaving for Zagreb, Yugoslavia, to spend a long time with her son, a nuclear consultant, and his wife, there for two years. Their oldest child, a son, attends Imperial College in London (Similar to his father's MIT); one daughter is a senior at Duke, the youngest is in twelfth year level at a Swiss school. She sent love to all members of their class.

KATHARINE P. CARNES, Macon, who served as Wesleyan librarian for years, wrote to your Editor on the death early in Dec. of Isabelle Kinnett. Miss Kinnett taught physical education at the College. "The girls who used to flit in the scarves Isabelle dyed such marvelous colors would probably be surprised to know that they live on in many memories as dreams of grace and beauty. Her work on pageants is unforgettable. For thirty one years Miss Kinnett supplied the Candler Memorial Library with lovely garden flowers three times a week. This was a labor of love since the pittance we paid for them was only a fraction of their value. The pleasure they gave us was beyond price." The Kinnett family lived on the lovely place on Forsyth Road which has since become the residence of Wesleyan presidents, a gift of the Bradley-Turner families, of Columbus, Ga. Earlier Katharine wrote: "As soon as the announcement of the plaques in honor of Jennie and me was made, I told Jennie about them and said, 'That means that the girls remember us together as we always were.'" The bronze plaques honoring Miss Carnes, Wesleyan Librarian 1919-1959, and JENNIE LOYALL MANGET, alumnae secretary (director), 1924-1947, have been installed in the foyer of the Oval Hall of the alumnae center, former Candler Library. Mrs. Manget is confined to her home by illness and is greatly missed by her many devoted friends.

SOONG CHING LING, born in Shanghai and today living in seclusion in her Peking residence, is the subject of a feature article in the Atlanta Journal and Constitution Nov. 30. "Some call her China's 'Grand Old Lady', but whatever her handle, Soong Ching-Ling stands out as one of the world's remarkable women. The Georgia-educated widow of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of China's first republic, and sister of Madame Chiang Kaishek, is 85 and in failing health, according to Peking sources," says the article. "Her disappointment (in the New China) lies in the heavy price paid for the achievements in human rights. Human rights has been a consuming passion for her, ever since she returned to China from Wesleyan College, in Macon, Ga., more than 60 years ago as an eager and idealistic school girl. She devoted most of her life to a fervent fight for the independence of China and for the dignity and welfare of her countrymen. She was a pioneer in China's women's rights movement." Until last Jan. she served as vice president of the PRC, remains chairman of the China Welfare Institute which publishes a monthly magazine in English and several other languages. The Editor of NOW has been receiving this magazine for the past several years.

EVELYN WRIGHT BANKS, Newnan, Ga., wrote your Editor in Oct. that she looks forward with pleasure to receiving the alumnae publications. She was pleased to receive "the beautiful paper weight which I greatly appreciate but so poorly deserve", (for membership in the 1836 Club).

'16 Next Reunion in '76

VERNA FRENCH SHAFFER, Cordele, Ga., is chairman of her 60th class reunion. She still teaches music, will receive an Alumnae Award for Distinguished Achievement on Alumnae Day. "I'm glad to know so many of my class are still around," she wrote the Alumnae president, Jackie Richardson. "Hope some of us can manage to attend Alumnae Day in the spring."

'17 Next Reunion in '80

SUE TANNER MC KENZIE, Atlanta, was a special guest at Alumnae Council. Sue has become an apartment dweller, living on the 25th floor of the Plaza Towers on Peachtree street. She enjoys sunrise over Stone Mountain, she says, and the lights of Atlanta at night. She especially enjoys her children and grandchildren. Her son, Harold, Jr., is married to Kay Branch, has three children: Harold III, Susan Ainsley, and Katherine. The latter is musical, like Sue, who earned her BM in '17, her AB in '18, and keeps her Steinway piano in her apartment. She was president of the Atlanta Music Club in the '30's. Daughter Susan Ann is Mrs. G. Brock McGruder, mother of four boys. Four Tanner sisters attended Wesleyan: LYDIA TANNER WEAVER (deceased); MARY TANNER PATTILLO, Orlando, Fla., KATHERINE TANNER GILBREATH, DeLand, Fla., and Sue.

'18 Next Reunion in '78

Congratulations to POLLY PIERCE CORN, Macon, on the birth of her great grandson, George Felton Moore, born July 18 to granddaughter Ann Tracy Felton Moore (Mrs. Arthur Lee Moore, Jr.) whose mother is Ann Corn Felton (Mrs. George Felton).

'19 Next Reunion in '79

Congratulations to LINDA ANDERSON LANE (and her son, Trustee McKibben Lane, Jr.) on the marriage of her grandson, William Francis (Frank) Lane to Laura Anne Truitt Nov. 29 in Greensboro, N.C.

Sympathy to FAY MUNDY DURHAM, Cedartown, Ga., on the death of her husband, James Robert Durham, July 21 a year ago. They had celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary the day before. They have four children, 11 grandchildren, and four great grands, all of whom live near Fay.

Sorry to learn that GRACE LARAMORE HIGHTOWER, Thomaston, Ga., had been ill since Christmas. Grace's gift of a Steinway grand piano to the Oval Hall of the Candler Alumnae Center is being enjoyed immensely. When she was on campus a while back Grace said: "The Oval Hall is a place of rare beauty, thoughtfully done, elegant. It is a tribute and compliment to everything Wesleyan has ever stood for. The color is lovely. I hope the College family will have many grand affairs there." Grace was chairman of the alumnae committee in charge of decorating the center.

MILDRED HODGES BOWIE, Starr, S.C., wrote asking to join the 1836 Club for 1974-75. "Fate prevented my graduating from Wesleyan but the days that I spent there, especially practicing piano lessons in the Old Towers studios are among my most cherished memories. Years later I went to a northern university and did special work in church music, but always my love and loyalty have been with Wesleyan."

Word from REBECCA CAUDILL AYARS, Urbana, Ill., came in Sept. from her husband James who wrote concerning a quotation from Sidney Lanier on the Wesleyan campus. "Becky and I don't travel as we once did and have not been at or close to Wesleyan recently. Becky has her ups and downs healthwise. At the present time she seems to be on her way up from one of her downs. Up or down she sends you her love, and I send my best wishes to you and Wesleyan. I'm always grateful for what Wesleyan did for Becky." Jim used the quotation in a Quaker style outdoor wedding, also at a Quaker worship service.

ELLAMAE ELLIS LEAGUE received the bronze medal award, its highest honor, from the Georgia Assn. of Architects, in Nov. She closed her office in Macon Oct. 1, after 53 years, during which she received many awards for her outstanding contributions in the field. Most recently she has been working on the walk-driveway at the rear of the alumnae center. In Oct. she and her granddaughter went to Paris for a visit.

'22 Next Reunion in '79

LILLIAN COOPER CARTER, Tampa, Fla.: "I enjoyed my copy of Wesleyan College NOW that I received today. As you suggested I am enclosing a small check to help with the expenses of publication."

'23 Next Reunion in '78

Sympathy to MILDRED TAYLOR STEVENS, Macon, on the death of her brother, Marshall Johnston Taylor.

Sympathy to EVELYN THAXTON THRASHER, Macon, on the death of her sister LUCIE THAXTON WRIGHT '30, Mc Rae, Ga.

CHARLIE BURTON (BURT) HAWK, Cedartown, Ga., enclosing a gift to the Loyalty Fund, asked that we "please keep NOW coming my way. It is so interesting to be able to keep up with friends of yesteryear."

'24 Next Reunion in '79

MARY VAN VALKENBURG WILCOX, Lizella, Ga., sent $5.00 for the cassette tape on "This is Where it All Began," and the same amount "to help on expense of NOW magazine." "Would it be feasible each year to print the names of the 50 year class who attend reunion, also older classes, both in NOW and in the local press?"

ETHELENE SAMPLEY is curator of the Arthur J. Moore and Frank A. Strickland Museum-Library at Epworth-by-the-Sea, St. Simons, Ga. She is the daughter, granddaughter, sister, aunt, and sister-in-law of Methodist ministers, has done graduate work at Union Theological Seminary, Columbia U, and the U of Chicago. A writer of materials throughout the Methodist Church, she served as USA delegate to the World Conference of Christian Youth in Amsterdam, Holland.

Sympathy to ROSALIE RADFORD STILLWELL, Monroe, Ga., on the death of her sister, RUTH RADFORD LAUNIUS, '14, on Nov. 18.

Sympathy to CAROLYN WHITE IZLAR, Ocala, Fla., on the death of her husband, Lauristow T. Izlar, on Sept. 19. Our appreciation to ORA MIZELL DICKSON, Tampa, who attended the funeral, for sending us the information.

'25 Next Reunion in '78

Sympathy to LOULIE FORRESTER BURNS, Macon, on the death of her husband, Sidney Lanier Burns, Jan. 20.

Sympathy to MARTHA SPRATLING ESSAIAS, Atlanta, on the death of her husband, US Army Col. John Essaias, Sr. He was chaplain of the Atlanta Veteran's Hospital for 8 years, and associate pastor of Peachtree Road United Methodist Church for 22 years. They have two sons, six grandchildren.

MARYELLA CAMP, Newnan: "I am still enjoying our fiftieth anniversary celebration. It was great." Maryella keeps on the alert for prospective students for Wesleyan. Mary Allman Alford talked to MARY TANNER PATTILLO in Orlando on New Year's Day. The latter's husband had had a stroke and was rarely lucid; also her house had been ransacked, just before Christmas, wedding silver, etc. stolen.

She talked to FLORENCE CAWTHON STANBACK (now called Elizabeth) in Sanibel, Fla. "She's fine, a widow who enjoys having her children, grandchildren and in-laws visit her, also her sister, MARY CAWTHON." Two years ago the "sitting room" re-united at Florence's in Sanibel—ZULU PIERCE, CELESTE COPELAND WILLIAMS, BOOTS ALLEN MC GEE, MARY TANNER PATTILLO. SARAH FRANCES ASBURY '23 could not come, (her husband was sick and died shortly after), nor could LIZ STEPHENSON CLAYTON, divorced, successful stock broker in Fla.

ELIZABETH CANNON NUNN, Perry, Ga., went to Scandinavia and Russia in Sept., to Williamsburg, Va. in Dec. Your Editor met up with her and her companion, Mrs. J. N. Buff in the Atlanta airport after the latter's trip the week before Christmas. Elizabeth's daughter, BETTY NUNN MORI, '58, lives in Sandy Springs, Ga., has three children, Liz (the third Elizabeth), 16; John, 12, and George, 6. Son Sam Augustus (US senator and Alumnae Day speaker) and his Coleen have a daughter, Michelle, 9, and a son, Samuel Brian (third Sam), 6. Sen. and Mrs. Nunn had a most interesting trip to China in Dec. One of the family, Alex Nunn, long time editor of The Progressive Farmer, has written a book on the Nuns, which Elizabeth, it is hoped, will give to the Wesleyan Library.

REBECCA RAY TURTON, St. Simons Island, Ga., entertained your Editor and the Weyman Huckabees at lunch not long ago. Becky and her husband (deceased 16 years) operated a ranch on the island waterway near Ft. Frederica. Now she lives on East Beach in a charming house filled with her collection (2000 pieces) of blue and white Canton china of tea house pattern. A sufferer with arthritis, she had a fall last year resulting in broken bones. Her coming to Wesleyan Alumnae weekend was the first time she had been out in two years. Daughter Becky Ray Turton Vrodersen and her husband James, head of the electronics engineering department at Vanderbilt U, live in Nashville, Tenn., have a boy, Jim, 9, and a girl, Kristin, 7. Daughter Woody Lipthrott lives in Brunswick, teaches, has a son, Charlie, 11.

MARY ALLMAN ALFORD wrote: "I'm really excited over our reunion, and will surely plan to come! Unfortunately, I don't have even a Spanish shawl left (I've moved so often, and into such small, impersonal quarters) and I'm 50 pounds fatter! I'm still working hard as executive housekeeper at U of Cincinnati, 6 highrise dorms, 504 apartments sleeping 4500. I'm really blessed to have such a wonderful job, seven goodlooking and (so far) good grandsons, a darling 2½ year old great grandson." Mary expected to retire in Nov. and possibly manage an apartment building. She and her two daughters-in-law traveled 8400 miles through the West in five weeks last July. We thank her for sending news (and we'll lend you a shawl, Mary).

KATHERINE CATCHINGS WARE, Atlanta, in the letter she wrote to her classmates, reminded them that Loyalty Fund gifts might be made in honor of a living person, as a memorial to a loved one, matching gifts by corporations, contributions to scholarships, and becoming a Challenger. Katherine and "Trot" are long-time benefactors of the College; among other things they have established the Susie Martin Catchings Memorial Award, which was awarded this past year to Susan Word, Senior Music Major who made the most progress in music.

MYLE TARRER THOMAS' husband is a minister in the South Georgia Conference. In June they were transferred from Macon to Lakeland, Ga.

MILDRED GOWER SIMS, Atlanta, asking for extra copies of the last alumnae magazine "(because of our daughter, CAROLINE SIMS BROOKS, and also our friendship thru the years with Mrs. Leach)," also wrote: "Alumnae Day was just great! Can't believe I'm now looking forward to being a Golden Girl two years hence."

CHRISTINE GREENE GNANN, Augusta, Ga., is a private teacher of voice and piano. Her husband has had a stroke and she takes care of him, also does church work.

'28 Next Reunion in '78

ANNIE MAYS LARMORE, Decatur, Ga.,

out of the hospital last July following major surgery, wrote that her prayers and interest in Wesleyan are as fervent as ever. "It is always a joy to get Wesleyan College NOW and other publications and read of Wesleyan of my day and activities of today. As a Retired Person I can appreciate that Wesleyan is interested in educating women over 21 (Reentry Program), as well as the youth . . . I am very thankful that the capital gifts campaign has been a success thanks to the tireless dedication and gifts of the many friends and alumnae of the College, and, of course, the blessings of God above."

Sympathy to ADELE WARNOCK FLOURNOY, Macon, on the death of her husband, Josiah Everett Fournoy, Jan. 21. Wesleyan college at Rivoli was built on land that was the old Fournoy home place.

Thanks to HELEN KILPATRICK LYON, '30, for information sent about the late KATHLEEN MACKAY POWELL. Kathleen, a pioneer in medical illustrating, was founder and director for 32 years of the Department of Medical Illustration at Emory. We quote a letter of last April to her successor, Grover B. Hogan: "The Directors of the Archive of Medical Visual Resources (Boston Medical Library—Harvard Medical Library) are extremely impressed by the contribution to the field of medical education made by Kathleen Mackay Powell. Her brilliantly lucid drawings, which clearly portray complex medical procedures and clinical entities, deserve to be represented in the permanent collection of the Archive." The Archive was designing a mammoth three-gallery Bicentennial exhibit on medical illustration for the Boston Museum of Science. "With the many accomplishments and honors of Kathleen's life (including an Alumnae Award)," wrote Helen, "none was so great as the enthusiastic, happy way she lived, the quality of her character and the loving warmth that cheered and inspired confidence in all who knew her."

ANNE HOYLE UPCHURCH, Radford, N.C.: "The Alumnae weekend was wonderful and I can never thank all of you wonderful people at Wesleyan for what you did for me. I shall always cherish the memory. Wesleyan and Wesleyan alumnae mean so much to me." Anne was the recipient of a 1975 Alumnae Award for Distinguished Achievement.

INDUK PAHK, president of Berea in Korea Foundation in Washington, D.C., and founder of two schools in Korea, a vocational school for boys and a co-ed junior college, sent Christmas greetings. She noted that our Bicentennial year marked 50 years since she came to America as a student. "America took me to her heart and prepared a stage for me to play my role as one of the American Mission products of Korea." She told of needing funds to help furnish the new school chapel, also for scholarships. Her daughter, Iris Kim, is school principal.

Sympathy to HAZELL ROGERS BARKER, Macon, on the death of her husband, Col. Ernest S. Barker last March 29. Having served in the Philippines, Hawaii, Guam, Old China, and Japan, in World Wars I and II and in Korea, Col. Barker was buried in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors, beside his son, who died in an accident while a cadet at the USAF Academy.

ELEANOR MCDONALD STORZA, Atlanta, wrote your Editor that she regretted not being able to attend the dedication of the Hightower Steinway grand piano last fall in Candler Alumnae Center's Oval Hall. "I really lead such a hectic existence between here and the farm that I rarely can get away on short jaunts. But I promise myself the pleasure one day soon! Please give my best to all old friends there." She spoke of her neighbors, the Leach family, as "a great group," and Edward Eikner, who played the dedicatory concert as "a big talent."

Congratulations to FRANCES CALLAWAY MC COMMON, Macon, on the marriage of daughter Frances Claire to Boone Smith.

When your Editor took a Chamber of Commerce bus tour of Historic Savannah several months ago she enjoyed talking to the driver-guide, Jane Long, attractive daughter of CAROLINE TISON LONG, of Bluffton, Ga. Danise Greenwald Edel, daughter of the late DOROTHY DANNENBERG GREENWALD, '31, Macon, was serving as a volunteer at the desk of the historical HQ in the old railroad station. Later, in General Lee's bedroom in one of the restored houses, your Editor chatted with the hostess there, Georgia Foster Fawcett, who related that her great aunt, JULE ROSS FLOYD NOYES, of Camden City, had been a member of Wesleyan's first sorority.

Sympathy to EUGENIA COLEMAN PAYNE, Macon, on the death of her brother, J. D. Stetson Coleman, New York Oil Company Executive, last summer.

Husband of RACHEL JOHNSON ROSS, Macon, Dr. Thomas L. Ross, Jr., received the Heart of the Year award, the Georgia Heart Assn.'s highest award for volunteer leadership in the fight against heart disease at the 27th annual meet of the association.

Almost a full page of pictures and text on the late "Mr. Pat" Munroe, who died in 1940 in Quincy, Fla. appeared in the Florida Times-Union, Jacksonville. Mr. Pat and his family have long been counted among Wesleyan's most devoted friends. Three daughters are alumnae: JULIA MUNROE WOODWARD, '34, 12th of his 18 children, is a Trustee of the College; MARGARET MUNROE THROWER, '35, is the wife of the chairman of the board, Randolph W. Thrower, Atlanta; MARY GRAY MUNROE COBEY, was graduated in '34. Munroe grandchildren and other relatives have been educated at Wesleyan, and the Munroe Family have been generous benefactors of the College. "Mr. Pat," banker, early investor in Coca-Cola stock, hardware storekeeper and community worker, was described as "an unpretentious man who apparently cared little about a niche in history despite his status as a financial giant of the South." About 30 of his descendants still live in Quincy.

MARY KAY THORNTON MC LELLAN, Arlington, Va., wrote: "Had a wonderful short reunion with JESSIE COACHMAN BROOKER, my roommate during our sophomore year at Wesleyan, in June when she visited me for a couple of days. One evening we had dinner with DOT DUPUIS MACKIN and Don . . . needless to say Don could not get a word in edgewise. Just returned from two weeks in Scandinavia, marvelous trip!"

SUSAN MAGETTE, N. Charleston, S.C., wrote an interesting critique of the June NOW magazine. "You manage to get lots of reading in each one and 'different' covers . . . I am definitely not a 'Woman's Libba' and am against ERA so I'm tired of articles in that area; I'd have loved more details of Alumnae Day (fortunately I had a delightful visit with Katharine and Estelle Carnes and with the Gins so I've had most pleasant versions). LOUISE WADSWORTH JEFFCOAT, Columbia, S.C., writing MILDRED GOODRUM HEYWARD, Macon, after the death of her brother James ("one of mama's favorite people"), related an amusing incident: "Did you ever start practicing again? This past winter I went to a Beverly Sills concert. Her accompanist was Charles Wadsworth. I went backstage during intermission and we had a huggin-kissin time. I grew up hearing him practice in Dada's studio (Daisy Peddy). He took me back and introduced me to Beverly Sills, her husband, and daughter. She said, 'You're taking on over Charles as if he is the star.' I said, 'Well, he's from Newnan and you're just from Brooklyn.' They were all going to Newnan the next day." "As for my practicing," wrote Millie, "she is after me all the time, forgetting that I'm pushing a hundred and my fingers are nimble for the thimble but not for the keys."

VIRGINIA HILL THURMAN, Atlanta, wrote Mrs. Strickland, after attending the AAUW 50th anniversary program, of which Mrs. Strickland was chairman: "Years ago I visited Alleen Hinton in her beautiful home in the Conservatory, but I had not been back to see the room bearing her name. It is exquisitely done. I loved touring the old and new library buildings. The old one holds such dear memories. Miss Carnes was so kind and gracious to me during my year there and I remember her so fondly. It was pleasant to see my book with the other alumnae ones."

LORRAYNE BENSON HOCKMAN and her husband, Dr. Donald E. Hockman, Wheaton, Ill., sent a most unusual Christmas card with pictures and a map showing their unique tour of the USA, Mexico, and Canada. "We joined the jet-set every other weekend, flying to our cycles for a four-day adventure. Over 8,000 miles of wind has blown in our faces and 36,000 miles flown beneath us." The card shows Raynie, Jeanne, and Rob surveying the map.

Sympathy to the husband of ANN PICKENS MACK, and two sons, Neil, 18, and Dan, 16, on her death last Nov. 1. They live in Upper Marlboro, Md.

Robert J. Adams, Jr., husband of AURELIA BOND, was the subject of an article Jan. 18 in the Sunday Magazine of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution. Bob, a Macon real estate developer, had a private bridge built across the Ocmulgee River so that 2,000 acres of former pulpwood-forest land north of Macon on which he was developing the River North Country Club community might be a 10-minute drive from downtown.

KATHERINE ("Kappy") ELLISON CRAIN, Orlando, Fla., in 1974 married Clark E. Crain, Sr., retired career Navy flier, now a postal service employee. She wrote, along with her Loyalty Fund gift, that she has been happily employed as secretary to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for over three years, and would welcome calls from Wesleyan friends visiting the Disney World area. "Clark and I had a most pleasant overnight visit with my former Wesleyan roommate, MARGARET MOFFETT JONES, in Griffin, Ga., as we headed for Highlands, N.C. to visit my parents in July." Kappy's son, George Yundt, III, is a corporate pilot for Liberty National Life Ins. Co., having recently graduate from Auburn, and daughter Kitty Yundt is a radiology technologist in the Lake Chelan Community Hospital, Chelan, Wash.

VALERIA MC CULLOUGH MURPHEY, Macon, with a friend, Mrs. Mary Kinman, creates different and unusual handmade crafts and gifts, working at home on a line which consists of over 25 items. These are sold in a Macon shop and through gift and specialty shops along the Coast, also through the Atlanta Merchandise Mart. The latter entails getting ready for two big shows a year, in January and July. Another friend, CORKY DESSAU HOLLIDAY, '48, takes along samples and shows them to shop owners in her travels in her family camper. It's all strictly business, but lots of fun, says Valeria.

CORDELIA (CORKY) DESSAU HOLLIDAY, Macon, is one of the editors of Shoptalk, a calendar and shoppers' guide for the community.

ELIZABETH HUMBER HEAN STONE, New Cumberland, Pa., sending names of prospective students, also wrote: "We were in France in March on a fly-drive to Paris and the chateaux of the Loire, and unexpectedly went to Yugoslavia for ten days in May. Now our No. 2 son graduates and he will join C.H.II at Princeton. David received the senior math prize for best grade in the National Math test. C.H.II will be vice president of Triangle next year. BETTY MACKAY ASBURY, Atlanta, was the subject of an article in the newsletter of Child Service and Family Counseling Center, Inc. Title: "A Prize Package President." The president of the board of directors is "warmly regarded and cherished throughout our organization, a prime example of how much can be accomplished by the 'gentle touch'." She has been giving her "multiple talents" to the agency and the families it represents for the past 10 years. Daughter of a prominent Methodist minister Betty earned her Wesleyan degree in sociology, worked with neglected and abused children, with a case load of 90. She married her college sweetheart, an Emory man, had five children. She is a grandmother, while her youngest child is 8. Husband Frank has an insurance brokerage firm. Her brother James, who served in the Ga. Legislature and US Congress, formerly headed the social agency. Betty is active in her church, is also a record-setting swimmer.

Husband of MARY LANE CHEEK, Warren Cheek, banker of Jacksonville, Fla., was a speaker at the Seminar on Financial Planning for Women at Wesleyan Jan. 17.

Betsy, daughter of EMMY CARLTON and the Rev. Thomas H. Johnson, Statesboro, Ga., played the flute and marched in Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York and in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif. Betsy was one of two Georgia high school students chosen to be members of the 1975 McDonald's All-American High School Band, which participated in the two most celebrated parades of the year. A 15-year-old sophomore, she is in her second year as drum majorette for the Blue Devil Marching Band, received a trophy at the 1974 Centennial Marching Festival. She was chosen to play solo first chair flute in the 1975 All State Band which performed at the Savannah Civic Center last March. A large photo of the young flautist appeared with an article in the Savannah Morning News Oct. 3.

JERRY SHORT wrote: "What a happy day it was when LOUISE FOWLER GARTRELL and I received our Master's in Education degree this summer from Mercer University in Atlanta. To celebrate this joyous occasion ROSLYN ATKINSON HARDIN, BEVERLY BANKS BOLAND, JULIA WEATHERS WYNN, and MARIAN ALLISON WEBB took us to the Swan House for lunch. It's great to have such wonderful Wesleyan friends!"

MARJORIE GRAY HILL Windermere, Fla. wrote: "DONNA GARDNER's passionate plea got to me and spurred me to make this small contribution. I graduated from the Conservatory, which I dearly loved. And still today I am the best of friends with BILLIE JONES ROWE, PATTY BANKS DUFF, JERRIE THOMPSON MILLER and NANCY CUMMING CONNOLLY. Even tho we each live in different cities we manage to get together at least once a year. It all started with Wesleyan!"

ANDEE SCHWALBE STRONG, Clearwater, Fla.: "Theatre has become a major factor in my life. I'm in several productions a year, recently played Amanda in 'The Glass Menagerie'. I still write, most recently as a reporter for the St. Petersburg TIMES. Husband Paschal shares my interest in theatre, is professor of psychology at U of S. Fla. (and newly elected speaker of the faculty senate). Pat is an accomplished sailor-navigator and most of our vacations are aboard our yawl 'Andwee II.' No. 1 daughter, Pam (24) presented us with a redhaired, blue-eyed granddaughter, Dawn Ferguson, in Feb. Page (23) aspires to graduate work in biology, and Christian (20) is the last bird in the nest. I'm glad Dr. Gignilliat's fete was so successful."

JANE SCHMIDT CATLIN: "We are stationed at Headquarters USAF Europe in Ramstein AFB, Germany. The Spanish I learned at Wesleyan helped me enjoy a four year tour in Spain, but now with three years ahead of us in Germany, I am going back to school again to learn German."

HELEN CLANTON MEREDITH, Wilmington, Del., came back to Wesleyan for Alumnae Weekend last April, having returned to campus only once before, in 1956, since her graduation. "I just cannot tell you what a wonderful weekend it was or how much it meant to me! First, it was such a thrill to celebrate my mother's fiftieth reunion with her (MILDRED VINSON CLANTON). My father and I were both there and were so proud to share this wonderful event with her. Mother has loved and cherished Wesleyan all fifty years. I was so pleased and proud that I, as a Wesleyanne, could share all the lovely traditions of Wesleyan with her . . . to see the friendliness and fellowship enjoyed by all the Golden Girls! And how grand it was to celebrate Dr. Gin's eightieth birthday with him! Majoring in English under him was one of the thrills of my life . . . he gave me an appreciation and love of great literature that has enriched my life . . . It was not my reunion year. My twenty-fifth is next year (1976), but as Ann McKay and I were the only ones there from 1951 the Silver reunion class took me in and made me feel so welcome. I had truly forgotten how wonderful Wesleyan was and is . . ."

EUGENIA TRAPP ROHRBERG, Pacific Palisades, Calif. stopped off at the center when in Macon for a few days to visit her father. A pilot, she had flown alone in her own little Cessna 150. Eugenia earned her MA from Tulane, teaches math at Los Angeles Valley College. She was happy to see Mrs. Strickland, Ann Munck, who had taught her Sophomore lit, and your Editor, also Frances Bruce Van Horn, alumnae director and a classmate. The father of another classmate, ELAINE WOOD WHITEHURST, had taken her up on her first flight, in high school, thereby planting the seed of her interest in flying. Her other hobby is the two cats.

GIOVANNA CORSINI FENYES sent greeting for Christmas and the New Year from her home in Florence, Italy.

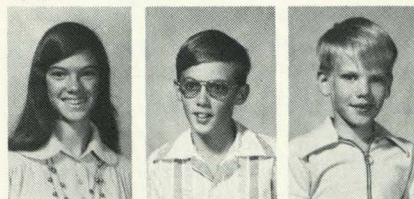

Sympathy to MARY JOE CAWLEY MCGEE, Albany, Ga., on the death of her father, L. V. Cawley, of Quitman, on June 25. He sent three daughters to Wesleyan.

ELAINE WOOD WHITEHURST, Atlanta, writes that she thoroughly enjoys law school at Emory. "Young people keep one young, as you know," commented Elaine, whose own young people, her sons, are excelling at school. Jimmy, at the top of his class of 350, will be off to college next year. Hugh rated very high on his verbal score.

Husband of NORA GORDON CLARKE, Harold G. Clarke, Forsyth, was elected president-elect of the State Bar of Georgia at the bar's 12th annual meeting in Savannah last June. This coming June he will succeed Stoll Hule of Atlanta as president. Cubbedge Snow, Jr., son of FRANCES CATER SNOW, '26, of Macon, was 1974-75 president.

SUSAN THIGPEN MCDUFFIE'S son Robert in Jan. became concert master of the Juilliard Pre-College Orchestra. A student at Juilliard School of Music he gave a full concert at the school on Dec. 13, and at Wesleyan on Feb. 17. Robert, who won first place among high school violinists of the USA a while back, more recently won first place in the Young Artists competition. Wesleyannes remember him as the little boy who played the violin so brilliantly on Alumnae Day some years ago.

LUCY NEELY ADAMS, Winchester, Tenn., is the author of a meditation in the January-February issue of THE UPPER ROOM, worldwide interdenominational devotional guide. Her theme: "Jesus wept." Lucy received her BA at Scarritt College in Nashville, Tenn., became a missionary in 1862 and has served in Korea and New Mexico. Her husband is the Rev. Woody Adams, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Winchester, Tenn. This writer also writes songs, has completed a booklet of instruction for playing the autoharp.

BARBARA BROWN DEAN, Atlanta, in 1975 sang with the Charlotte Opera Co., with Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, gave recitals, and sang "The Star Spangled Banner" at the Atlanta Falcon-Cincinnati Bengal game. "Most important is a new vocal category, Dramatic Soprano," she wrote. "I am very honored to have been accepted as one of the very few private students of Margaret Harshaw. She is a world famous Wagnerian soprano and teacher, Distinguished Professor at Indiana U and head of the vocal department at Curtis Institute. She has six private students; the other five are Metropolitan Opera Stars. I go to her for a daily three hour lesson one week out of three months. This new year finds me preparing recitals, Augusta Opera roles, and auditions in N.Y. and I am starting to teach singing at Georgia Tech, only vocal teacher on campus."

CAROLYN EADDY MOON wrote from Bloomfield, Mich., in Nov.: "For the next two years I will be traveling abroad, circumnavigating the globe. More details later. Maybe even a card from Pitcairn or Mozambique!"

JANE GALT BAILOR, enclosing a contribution to the 1975 College Development Fund, wrote President Strickland Aug. 1 that she and her sister were enjoying a good summer in New England. They were warmly received at Hanover, N. H., where her husband was professor of psychology at Dartmouth College for 33 years. She saw her third nephew graduate there, as had his father and brother, all with honors. The proud aunt sent "ever best wishes to my first Alma Mater" and to the Stricklands.

DR. ROSALIE VOIGHT JOHNSON and her husband, the Rev. J. Morgan Johnson, were pictured in an article in the Wesleyan Christian Advocate last summer among instructors at the 1975 South Georgia Conference Schools of Christian Mission held at Epworth-by-the-Sea. The Johnsons were in this country after more than a decade as missionaries in Rhodesia. "They were expelled from the white-dominated African nation after Mr. Johnson was acquitted by a Rhodesian court on charges related to a political cartoon he drew: critical of the government's policies toward its black citizens," reported the Advocate.

JANE T. LOWE PAYNE writes from Orwigsburg, Pa.: "I do enjoy NOW and have it on my coffee table. Thanks for keeping me in touch. Would love to hear from any Wesleyanne living near me. We are 20 miles east of Reading, Pa.

Sympathy to MILDRED STEVENS EDWARDS, Macon, on the death of her father, Marshall Johnston Taylor.

MARTHA G. ROWLETTE, Menlo Park, Calif., was elected by the ministers of her Conference to be a delegate to the General Conference of the Church, two weeks this spring in Portland, Ore. First clergywoman to be elected from her Conference she received most votes on the ministerial ballot and became the head of the ministerial delegation from California-Nevada. She became chairperson for the whole delegation, lay and clergy, first time in the history of the Methodist Church that a clergywoman has headed a delegation to General Conference. She will head the delegation to the Western Jurisdictional Conference in Salt Lake City in July. This woman minister wrote a history of women lay pastors from 1865 to 1956, presented as a drama at their annual conference last year. She is listed in "Who's Who in Religion."

MEDRA LOTT WALLACE enrolled her daughter, Laura Lee, as a freshman to begin the Feb. term at Wesleyan. Medra's husband is Col. Richard Wallace, of Bradenton, Fla., stationed at Ellsworth AF Base, Rapid City, Iowa. They have another daughter, Cynthia, 11 months younger than LL, and a son, Ricky, 12. Medra is involved in officers' wives activities, church work, and various charities. It was good to see her on campus.

JEAN O'KEEFE HENDERSON, N. Augusta, Ga., and your Editor had a nice visit in the Atlanta airport Jan. 13 when Jean and her husband Jim were en route home from a business trip to Key West. Jean said she had gotten a call recently from Mrs. Margaret Tilly, former Wesleyan house mother, who now lives in Columbus, Ga. to be near her son Wright, a newspaperman. Jean and Jim have four daughters: Lori, 15, is a beautiful seamstress; Holly, 14, plays in two bands; Kim, 12, plays guitar and piano; Cassie, 10, is a natural musician, says their mother, and all play the piano well. "They're all very responsible, future Wesleyan girls, we hope. I ran into Mr. McLean, my former voice teacher, last summer in Jekyll, and he promised to take care of them at Wesleyan. He and his wife are so delightful. MARCIA ADAMS CASHIN, '59, teaches all the girls piano. She's precious."

LINDA WARNOCK WHITE teaches piano at her home in Marietta, Ga. She and husband William B., an IBM development analyst, celebrated their tenth anniversary in Sept. They have two children, Laura, 6, and Bill, 4½. Linda also has a daughter, Lisa, 15. The family made a 6400 mile three-week motor trip to San Francisco last summer. Linda enjoys vegetable gardening, rafting down the Chattahoochee, sewing, and reading mysteries. And the alumnae magazine — "like having a pleasant visit with many alumnae at one time."

Friends sympathised with NINA SHEPPARD TERRELL and her family, Macon, when their home was gutted by fire Christmas week. Temporarily the Terrills are staying at the Rivoli Condominium.

Sympathy to KATIE LEE CAWLEY ASHMORE, on the death of her father, L. V. Cawley, of Quitman, June 25.

Sympathy to CHRIS CHRISTOPHER KELSEY, Tampa, Fla., on the death of her mother in Tampa, at Chris's home where she spent her last days. "She'd been ill with cancer three and a half years," wrote Chris, "and was an inspiration to all of us. I always enjoy receiving Wesleyan news . . . I hope that Wesleyan will be ready for my daughter, Lauren by the time she's ready for Wesleyan! She's 13 now . . . Christopher Scott is 11 and still the sage of the family. Dave enjoys his work at University Community Hospital as much as ever. Right now we're taking a break from foster care after loving 17 children during the last six years, in addition to our own two (from four days to 14 months) . . ." Chris has a part-time job at the First United Church of Tampa, United Church of Christ.

JANE POWERS WELDON: "We have been in Delmar, N.Y. (near Albany) since May. Ed is now Archivist of New York State. I still edit Science Activities for the HELDREF Foundation in Washington, which I visit once every couple of months, doing the rest of the work by phone and mail. I also do occasional free-lance editorial work, most recently for the NY State Bicentennial Commission. Larry, 16, is a high school junior; Ted, 9, is in fourth grade. Ed, Larry, and I enjoyed a European archives study tour this summer. We are all having a good time expanding our horizons here, too."

VIRGINIA SUMERFORD YORK: "We have just returned from an exciting two years with the American Embassy in Seoul, Korea, where Guy (Lt. Col) was Senior Civil Engineering Advisor for Korea. We travelled extensively throughout Korea and loved not only the beauty of the country, but also the warm attitude of the people. We went all over SE Asia, our favorite place being the Island of Penang, Malaysia, in the Indian Ocean. We are now settled in our new home in Panama City, Fla., delighted to be so close to home again. I would love to see any Wesleyannes in this area. I always enjoy reading the magazines so much."

When VICTORIA WILSON LOGUE came to Macon last March to visit her sisters, MARGARET WILSON BOSWELL, '64, and KATHERINE WILSON JOHNSON, '68, they took pictures. A shot of "the Wilson Girls," all Green Knights, made in the Burden parlor, was presented to their parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Wilson, on Mothers Day, inscribed: "With grateful appreciation for our years at Wesleyan and the unlimited memories which they provide."

JUKIE HARDEMAN CALDWELL and her husband and two girls came by Wesleyan for a visit in the fall. They live in Perry, Fla. Her husband is a minister.

JUDY ROE PHILLIPS, Louisville, Ky. stopped at Wesleyan on her way home from Disney World at Thanksgiving. Betsy, 9, and Cathy, 4, were with her "(future Tri-K's)", and enjoyed their beach house in St. Augustine with Tom and Daddy. Judy is working with the Louisville girls to get an alumnae group organized, and DOTTIE SMITH MAHON helped with a tea at Judy's. Dottie has a restaurant, "Captain's Quarters," on the Ohio river. She wrote: "I owe Wesleyan so very much! After living all over the world I can say that Wesleyan is a magic word that opens doors on all continents. How small our Wesleyan, but how broad the respect she commands! (Figured it out and I'm raising two future Tri-K's)."

SUSAN GLOVER JORDAN, Avon Park, Fla., had a first child, a son, on June 20. Father, Dr. Brian T. Jordan, is director of Highlands Psychological Center in Sebring, Fla. BETSY GIBBONS MONTIS lent invaluable help to the new mother when little Kevin Glover Jordan was three weeks old and daddy went away on a business trip, reports Susan.

DONA D. VAUGHN, Brookville, Fla. and New York, who received her BA in voice at Wesleyan, was written up in the alumnae bulletin of Brevard College, which she also attended. Dona has performed on Broadway, in films, and as a featured singer. Most recently she served as assistant director of Tennessee Williams' "Red Devil Battery Sign," and directed the Women in the Performing Arts Festival at Lincoln Center; also in November she was production assistant for "A Celebration of Lillian Hellman" at Circle-in-the Square. She volunteers at Cornell (New York) Medical Center, for National Hemophilia Foundation, and reads for Touch Network for the blind, also does TV commercials.

DALE PIERSON HILL, Chamblee, Ga., designed the wall painting at 10 Pryor Street Bldg. in downtown Atlanta. Her design was one of six artists' designs winning the state-wide competition. Dale has been active as a printmaker since receiving her MA from Florida State in 1968. Her work is in the Galerie Ilien, Atlanta; Graphics Gallery, San Francisco; Assn. of American Artists, NYC; and Havens Gallery, Columbia, S.C. She is married to Thomas Hill and they have a daughter 4 years old. Thanks to LOUISE MARCHMAN WALL, for this information.

JANE ROBERTSON JACKSON, Louisville, Ky., is working on her MCM degree at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. She serves as choir director at Parkview United Methodist Church (four choirs). Daughter Jenna is in first grade. Jane is divorced.

MINDY BHULLAR SANDHU, Nairobi, Kenya, wrote in Sept.: "I cannot believe that it is 10 years since I left Wesleyan . . . All the changes which must have taken place for good . . . Sati (husband) is still busy running his law office single handed. I have had promotion in my job as a lecturer. Sister Javinder and her family are fine; her eldest son is 18 . . . My parents are here. Mother is bothered by her arthritis. Deep (brother) has bought a large house, has been confirmed as a professor (he wins golf prizes). His wife is finishing her degree in computer science . . . Younger sister Pal, and her family made a flying visit here in July, after 10 years in Canada . . . Sati and I had a wonderful holiday in Zanzibar, with its narrow streets, old history and the smell . . . cloves, cinnamon, and black pepper growing . . . The people were friendly, but as in Dar-es-salaam there was shortage of everything, with queues for food stuffs and clothes . . ."

VIRGINIA A. EVERTON REINHARDT, Wilton, Conn. (See Births): "After graduation from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Jim accepted a position with General Telephone and Electronics as an analyst.

We are thoroughly in love with the beautiful state of Connecticut. Antiquing and needlepointing occupy much of my time, not to mention a mommy to the two little ones."

SUZANNE SPRADLING MARTIN and Bob, along with Stacy and Saraday, sent Christmas greetings from Iceland. "The name is a misnomer," she wrote. "It's really warmer than Maine." She asked about availability of a trumeau of Old Wesleyan. Gloria Kennedy is teaching stringed instruments in the public schools in the Atlanta area. Kathy DeBerry is orchestral chairman of the Georgia Music Educators Association. Jackie Turner Burton is completing requirements for an MM in voice at the University of Georgia.

EVAUGHN LOWERY BALKCOM moved to Montgomery, Ala. last spring. Husband Ron is vice president of R.B. Burnham Van Services there. "I am enjoying a rest after having taught public school music, been choir director and organist of the Columbus, Ga., church for five years, and taught private piano. Plan to teach privately again in the fall (1975). Just can't stop completely!" Editor, who is also "the staff" of NOW, thanks Evaughn for her words of appreciation.

MARJORIE WELCH GREEN, York, Pa. (See Births), has been very active in choral music. She was a member of the 23 voice York College Choir which performed "Messiah" this Christmas, accompanied by the York Symphony Orchestra. In past years she has been soloist with the symphony and keeps the name of Wesleyan resounding in Pa., reports her Wesleyan voice teacher, Norman McLean.

VICKI PAGE JANS, W. Lafayette, Ind., is a part-time instructor at Purdue U, supervising student teachers in a special teacher training project. Husband Hal is in his third year as an assistant professor in science education at Purdue. Their Jennifer is two. With her Loyalty Fund contribution she wrote: "I hope it will help in a small way to defray those ever-increasing college costs. I think of Wesleyan and my friends from there often. Living here in Indiana keeps me remote from old friends and their news." Michele Daniel Kelly has moved to Germantown, Md.

CAROLYN NORTHRIDGE ROBERTS, has moved from Sarasota to Naples, Fla., where her husband, George became vice president and cashier of the Barnett Bank of Collier County on Sept. 15. "After the last NOW came out CHRISTIE SMITH called to say 'hi' and to let me know she was in Sarasota, too—and now we're on the move again!" Carolyn asked for information about the needlepoint of the Wesleyan seal.

JUDI PARISH BENSON (daughter of JULIA LARMAR PARISH, '30), graduated last June with highest honors from U of North Florida. Judi won three top prizes in a UNF poetry competition. An article in the school newspaper places her among the best poets writing in America today. Born in Coronado, Calif., Judi studied Shakespeare at the Queen's Gardens School, London a while back. She now works for the Jacksonville Symphony. Judi is the godchild of Crockett Odum, of Macon.

JOANNE BRIDGES COOPER, Warner Robins, Ga., entered Mercer's Walter F. George School of Law in the fall of 1975. She found a Wesleyan classmate, LIBBA SORRELLS WEBB, in the same class!

TRICIA PACE KITCHENS, owner of Satin Slippers Studio of Dance in Macon, spent last June and July studying several styles of dance at Boston Conservatory of Music. In the past year, by examination, she has been accepted into Dance Masters of America, Dance Educators of America, Professional Dance Teachers of America Assn., and National Assn. of Dance and Affiliated Artists. Last fall she was asked to teach a class to dance instructors in Jacksonville, Fla.

ELIZABETH SORRELLS WEBB, Griffin, Ga., visited the alumnae center in Aug.

GINNY DAVIS is now living in Altamonte Springs, near Orlando, Fla., and employed as administrative assistant to Rep. Bob Hattaway. She spent Thanksgiving in Tallahassee.

Sympathy to CLAUDE BURNS BUZZELL, Macon, on the death of her father, Sidney Lanier Burns, on Jan. 20.

'70 Next Reunion in '80

BRENDA ROBINSON JORDAN, Gainesville, Fla. (See Marriages), teaches reading after earning a Master's in that area. Her husband, Larry, works for the Sheriff's department.

ANGELA VEAL CARRINGTON, LINDA HAWKERSMITH SMITH, GEORGIA FOX MC INTOSH, CHRIS VON LEHE BURNS, and CAROL CROW LINEBERGER visited the Alumnae center on July 17, and wrote they thought it was beautiful.

CHRIS VON LEHE BURNS, Macon, has two sons, Jonathon and Michael.

CAROL LATTA held a TGIF party at her home in Atlanta in July which seemed like a reunion. "GEORGIA FOX MC INTOSH, SUSAN BRADSHAW, LINDA HOWKINS SMITH, ANGELA VEAL CARRINGTON, JUDY WHITE, CAROL CROW LINEBURGER, LE TROMBETTA, ANN HARVEY COHEN, and LINDA GOLDEN MOORE had a fantastic time seeing each other and having their husbands get acquainted."

LINDA DERBY ALLSHOUSE, Ft. Myers, Fla., received her Master's from Mercer in

Aug., 1973, was married that same year to George. They had a son Geoffrey Michael, Sept. 5. Weighing 10 pounds, 10 ounces at birth, he hit 15-5 at two months. "What fond memories I carry with me of Wesleyan," she writes. "Every time I begin a new exercise with my students I can feel Uncle Fuzzy staring over my shoulder and whispering, 'Is it relevant?'"

STEPHANIE CHENEY HENDRY, Cocoa, Fla., moved from a cottage into larger quarters, is still teaching kindergarten. Last March husband Alan got his BA from Fla. Tech, hoped to teach. Sister Kay, back in Cocoa, is working toward the MA in Business at Fla. Tech.

JANE WARD GAULT: "I am currently living outside Austin, Tex., on a corner of my father-in-law's ranch and would love to see any Wesleyanne who vacations in our direction" (See births).

NANCY CONNER CLARK and husband Robert have been in Charlotte, N. C., for a year and a half. He started his residency in General Surgery in July "(hard to get adjusted to his being at the hospital every third night)". Robert Bicknell Clark III arrived April 19. His mother reports that he already has a girl friend—Catherine Stewart Curl, born to Chip and JENNY STEWART KOPP CURL, '70, March 17.

DIANE DENNINGTON ABDI, Atlanta, and husband Zia "welcomed into the world a little daughter, Farah Grace, on July 14, 1975. She is a doll and I absolutely love being a mother. We're speaking to her in both Persian and English, hoping she'll grow up bilingual." Diane was the first graduate student at Ga. State to present a graduate voice recital in their first class of graduate music students. For three years she taught choral music in an Atlanta high school, resigned to become a professional accompanist. Last year she worked extensively with Robert Shaw in preparation for the Bernstein "Mass", and was hired by the Atlanta Symphony to play also in the performances—"What fun, even if I was eight months pregnant!"

KATHLEEN WRIGHT DODD has moved from Atlanta to Cincinnati, Ohio, where husband David is a senior economist for Federated Department Stores. She writes she is enjoying being a housewife, for a change.

P. J. (PAT) JONES has moved to Hilton Head Island, S.C. "I am still flying Delta Airlines with BECKY EDENFIELD, KATHY MARCELUS, DIANE LATTA, and others. It's so hard to realize it has been over four years since the Wesleyan days. Yet I always run passengers who have heard of our small girls' college in Macon, Ga. Its reputation comes as a proud surprise sometimes, in far away places in the US and abroad . . . I fly from Atlanta; commuting is a small price to pay for the beauty of the island in S. C. Have enjoyed your magazine and newsletters so much."

'72 Next Reunion in '76

BETSY REEVES WILCOX and husband Bruce live in Memphis, Tenn., where she teaches algebra at Mumford High and Bruce works for IBM. "I look forward to NOW and reading about everyone's children and careers." Her hobbies include needle work and yardwork.

ANN PERKINS is at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque working on an MM in voice. She was on campus in Jan. to coach with Prof. Mc Lean.

SUSAN WYLLYS WALLACE, who lives in the Washington, D. C. area, was in Macon to await the birth of her sister SYLVIA WYLLYS BOONE'S second child. On Feb. 1 a party in her honor was held at JOYCE RICE ELLISON'S. Present were LYNN GOLSON, Gray; CAROLYN MC CALL JONES, SUSAN MANN, and EILEEN MOFFITT RICHARDSON. It was a real talkfest, said Joyce.

'73 Next Reunion in '76

CARON GRIFFIN CARTER, with her husband "Chip," is very busy these days helping with the presidential campaign of her father-in-law, former Gov. Jimmy Carter. The young couple were received with enthusiasm in New Hampshire and also in Palatka, Fla. when they filled in for Jimmy himself, kept at home with a virus infection. Caron was unable to be in Macon to attend a reception given for the senior Mrs. Carter, as she was "politicking" in New England. A number of her Wesleyan friends came to meet charming Rosalyn. The Wesleyan student from Hawkinsville, Ga., met Chip (James Earl, Jr.), when she served as Governor's intern during the summer of '71. They were married in June, 1973, with the Governor serving as best man, and took up residence in the guest cottage (called the Red Barn) of the Governor's Mansion in Atlanta. They are now back in Plains, helping with peanuts and politics.

JANICE MAYS will graduate soon from Law School at UGA, and will have a job with the House Ways and Means Commission in Washington, D.C.

KATHLEEN RUSSELL ROSS now lives in Augusta, Ga., where her husband attends Augusta College and serves as associate pastor and minister of youth at St. James

United Methodist Church. Kathy is a computer programmer at the medical center of Ga.

JANIE PEDEN GANTT and Mike married four years ago, have a little girl, Jennifer, who was a year old in Sept. Mike is an officer in Seibels, Bruce, and Co., in Columbia. Last summer they spent two months in Los Angeles, where Mike was sent by his company to attend a school. "I miss Wesleyan and all the wonderful friends I made there. It would be great if our Jennifer decides to come there for college. Look for an application from her in about sixteen years!"

SUSAN SMITH CAULEY, Jefferstown, Ky., was selected Outstanding Music Student for 1974-75 at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

ANN C. WRIGHT WANSLEY, Atlanta (see weddings) is a teacher of multi-handicapped pre-schoolers in Fulton County Schools. Husband David is an assistant branch manager for C & S Bank, Atlanta.

STEFANI SCOTT, Gainesville, Ga., wrote last summer: "In 1972 I worked at Savannah River Ecology Laboratory during my sophomore summer. A paper from the research I did with other National Science Foundation Program students has been published in Health Physics, vol. 28 (Jan. 1975). The title is "Uptake of Radiocesium from Contaminated Floodplain Sediments by Herbeceous Plants." . . . Everyone is now thinking about nuclear power as an alternative to fossil fuels . . . My good friend MAELU DARSEY, '73-'74, finished her Master's at UGA and is a school psychologist living in Ft. Valley. We're getting together Labor Day . . . my best to Mrs. Lapinsky and Dean Schafer."

DEBBIE STOCKTON is now employed as a sociologist at the College Street Hospital, Macon. She had been serving as admissions counselor at the College. Thanks to Debbie for the following:

BETTY JORDAN is working with the Macon-Bibb County Bicentennial Committee through the Macon Chamber of Commerce, lives in Macon.

CATHY TEDESON also works with the Chamber, coordinating conventions held in Macon.

KATHY DOUGLAS REID and husband George have moved from Atlanta to Douglasville, Ga. where he will practice law.

RUTH GILLIS NORMAN began studies this summer at UGA toward her Master's in elementary education.

JANE STEPHENS WILLIAMS has moved to Atlanta to join Southern Bell as a communications consultant.

MARY LINGER received an MM in voice from the University of Illinois this summer and has been awarded another fellowship to work on a Doctorate in voice at the same institution.
